A native Detroiter, Rachel Edwards-Mosby began her career working with urban youth as an angler educator with the Michigan Department of Natural Resources. This experience ignited a passion that has driven her 18+ year career in managing and directing programs supporting underrepresented populations within environmental, conservation, and energy spaces. A Spartan through and through, Rachel attended Michigan State University (Environmental, Economics & Policy) where she was Chapter President of Minorities in Agriculture, Natural Resources and Related Sciences (MANRRS). Now serving as General Manager of Polar Bear Sustainable Energy Cooperative and Board Treasurer of People's Solar Energy Fund, Rachel is currently focused on ensuring every home has access to safe, reliable, renewable, and affordable power.
